

Hello!

First I want to thank everyone that stayed with us. We passed 65 hundred downloads recently and I wish there was a way I could thank each of you personally.

This is going to be an update about Season 2. Writing is well under way. And, while Alan's story isn't over, the new season will focus on a completely new character, in a completely new setting.

It's going to be 6 episodes and I'll be casting 2 main roles and a few small roles. We don't have a release date, but I'm hoping we can have it ready for July 2020.

Now, I'm sure you're asking, why is this a new story? Well, in 1998, the Sci-Fi Channel released an anthology show called, Welcome to Paradox. The stories weren't connected really, but they were all set in the same town, Betaville. It was meant to be a utopian future, but the stories showed us that things weren't what they seemed.

But this isn't a plug for a late 90's TV show. I wanted to give it as background. Season 2 may be in a new setting, with unfamiliar characters, but we'll tie it into the bigger Manifestations universe by the end. And we'll get back to Alan in Season 3. Which I want to have ready by winter 2020.

While we wait for Season 2, I would also like to release a Q&A episode. What would you like to know? Do you want more on a character? Specifics on the technology? Or maybe more history about the New Dark Age? What about a plot point or unresolved thread? Let me know.

You can contact me on Twitter, Instagram or Facebook @podmanifest, DM's are open. Or email to manifestationspodcast@gmail.com

Now, I'd like to play a trailer for a show I've been enjoying. The Subjective Truth, by GOOD POINTE PODCASTS. The story has many levels, it's one of those shows that makes me question reality. I think you'll enjoy it. (insert trailer)

<https://goodpointepodcasts.com>

<https://podcasts.apple.com/us/podcast/the-subjective-truth/id1476957977>